AN EPITOME OF COMFORT!!!!

Afternoon tea

“A simple cup of tea is far from a simple matter”
-Mary Lou Heiss

The story began, or so they say, with the duchess. A long time ago, in the not-so distant Leicestershire, Anna, the duchess, was hungry. Lunch in the 1840s was not a grand affair and dinner, while lavish, was not served until late. Famished, she called for tea and buttered bread to be brought to her room in the afternoon. Pleased with herself, she did the same the next day and the next. Soon, tea became a social affair and friends joined the afternoon tradition with pastries, cakes and finger sandwiches all added to the menu.

Our story begins with family.
